The Power of How

Join for an information packed evening!

John Bass of the Nucor Corporation will share his insights and will provide an update on Section 232 and Trade and how these Administration policies are affecting the metals Industry

Leaders are made, not born. Focusing on the attributes of “How” Leadership, Dan Markin illustrates a substantive plan for identifying, then strategically mitigating, the perceptions and thinking that impede success.

John Bass became Nucor’s General Manager of Public Affairs in May 2015. The Nucor Public Affairs team in Charlotte and Washington are involved in lobby and advocacy activities at the federal, states and local levels that further the long-term interests of Nucor and its customers. John joined the company in 1978 at Nucor’s Vulcraft Texas Division and has held a variety of positions of increasing responsibility including that of Controller in Jewett, Texas. John earned a bachelor’s degree in accounting from Sam Houston State University.

Dan Markin’s innovating and practical motivational techniques and strategies – Introspective Leadership - have consistently allowed clients to enjoy breakthrough results by identifying and segregating the mental barriers that bind us to a vicious circle of self-sabotage, unfocused and small thinking behaviors and turn them into quick, smart and powerful decisions. Dan has over 20 years of corporate executive experience having held senior level positions with profit-and-loss responsibility. Dan Markin is the author of “The Power of How.”
