Barry Zekelman

Executive Chairman & CEO, Zekelman Industries

Barry was born and raised in Windsor, Ontario. He received his early education in Windsor and later attended York University in Toronto, Ontario.

His University education was interrupted in 1986 with the sudden passing of his father, the late Harry Zekelman, when the ownership of Atlas Tube Inc. was assumed by Barry and his two brothers. Atlas Tube has grown from $1.5m in revenue in 1986 to over $1.2B by 2006.

In October 2006, John Maneely Company, a maker of steel tubing that was owned by private-equity giant Carlyle Group announced a merger with Atlas Tube Inc. creating the largest independent tubing company in North America. In March of 2011 the Zekelman's purchased back Carlyle's 55% interest in JMC. Then, in June of 2016 the company was renamed Zekelman Industries.

Today, Zekelman Industries, the parent of Atlas Tube, American Tube, Wheatland Tube, Western Tube, Sharon Tube, Picoma and Z modular produces over 2.4 million steel tons per year in 19 plants, manufactures and builds over 1500 multifamily residential apartments thru Z modular and employs over 2900 people throughout the United States and Canada. Zekelman Industries maintains the #1 market position in North America in HSS, Standard pipe, Electrical conduit and Electrical fittings, with sales in excess of $5B annually. Barry is currently the Chairman and CEO of Zekelman Industries and is responsible for taking the company to new heights.

Dr. Don McNeeley

Executive Chairman, Chicago Tube and Iron

Donald McNeeley is the Executive Chairman of Chicago Tube and Iron Company, a steel distribution and engineered fabrication company founded in 1914, headquartered in Chicago with ten subsidiaries. Founded upon sound free-market principles, they have achieved 108 years of consecutive profitability, a record unmatched in the United States Steel Industry. In 2011, Dr. McNeeley was the architect of a merger of his company with Olympic Steel, Inc. The combined forces producing $3.0 billion in revenue and 44 locations positions them as one of the top 10 in the nation.

Dr. McNeeley is also a clinical professor at Northwestern University where he teaches in the graduate program at the prestigious McCormick School of Engineering and Applied Mathematics. He also writes a quarterly column on the political, societal, and economic landscape for The Wholesaler Magazine.

Dr. McNeeley is a graduate of the Harvard Business School. In addition, the University of Wisconsin, Benedictine University, and George William College. He earned his Ph.D. in Economics, an MBA, an MS in Management and Organizational Behavior as well as a BA in Business.

Directorships include Affiliated Distributors Inc., in Wayne, PA, Saulsbury Industries in Odessa, Texas, and Vail Rubber Works Inc. in St. Joseph, Michigan. He is a Management Trustee of the Pipefitters' Union Local 597. He is a former Director of the Committee for Monetary Research in Greenwich, Connecticut, and Olympic Steel in Cleveland, OH. He has been featured in many industry and business publications, including the Wall Street Journal. He was a finalist for the Ernst and Young Entrepreneur of the Year. In addition, he was recognized as the ASA Executive of the Year, The P.V.F. Hall of Fame, Metal Center News' Man of the Year, and has been featured as an industry thought leader in Forward Magazine.

He defends capitalism on the basis of what it funds, specifically job creation, and charity. In that regard, as chairman of the MSCI, Dr. McNeeley introduced a scholarship program, which, to date, has granted $12 million in financial assistance to children of steel distribution employees. In addition, Dr. McNeeley received the Philanthropy Award from La Rabida Children's Hospital in Chicago, for his $3.6 million donation, the largest donation in their 110-year history. He has personally funded school construction and anti-poaching initiatives throughout Africa.

As testament to his competitive nature, Don has completed 82 marathons, including a five-time finisher of the renowned Boston Marathon, 7 Olympic distance triathlons, and in a test of endurance, he once completed 6 marathons in 6 weeks.

In speaking with Don, he is most proud of hailing from a working-class family of modest means with seven siblings. Part of his childhood was featured in a publication entitled Limbo, White Collar Dreams with Blue Collar Roots. It is said that he has the unique ability to make political and economic complexities easily understood.
